FIELD NOTES

Is this the year a club outside of the greater Richmond area breaks through in the VSGA Club Championship? The last nine winners have come from the Richmond metro, including Independence Golf Club last year and Hermitage Country Club (Ben Beach and Jordan Utley, pictured) in 2023. Expect Hermitage to be a force once again, as the Manakin Sabot club includes the Beach brothers (Sam and Ben), Utley and professional Charlie Hanson, a former Virginia Tech standout. The Beach brothers are past VSGA Four-Ball champions.

- Independence will run back three-fourths of the lineup that won the 2024 championship, as Scott Bemberis, Hank Klein and Cam Young are back. Elliott Wilson slots in as the professional, replacing Ryan Cole.
- Keswick Club's Kyle Bailey and Will Collins recently won the VSGA Multi-Format Team Championship. They're joined by Boston Craddock and Craig Fenton.
- International Country Club's entry includes three VSGA champions from 2024: Women's Amateur winner Lauren Greenlief and Super Senior Four-Ball champs Mike Howell and Paul Gural.
- Another team with three past VSGA champions is Chatmoss Country Club out of Martinsville, which features State Open winners Keith Decker and Jerry Wood, along with past VSGA Mid-Amateur champ Blake Carter. Decker is a Virginia Golf Hall of Famer.
- The Foundry's entry features four-time State Open champion Jay Woodson, along with Paras Pandya, Austin Gray, and Ren Schiffman.
- Willow Oaks CC features seven-time VSGA winner Steve Serrao, along with Charles Lange, Sean Patterson, and Richard Wintsch.
- Unclubbed Golf, a VSGA affiliate club, is the lone entry in the field not associated with a physical facility. It features Will Saunders, Joe Peddicord, Gary Riddle, and Brian Ronnau.
- The last time the winner came from outside of the Richmond area was in 2015, when Army Navy CC and Cavalier G&YC shared the spoils.
- Hermitage holds the record for wins with 19, claiming its first title in 1941 and its most recent in 2023. Three clubs are tied for second with four wins: Hanover GC, Army Navy, and Roanoke CC.
